

1 - PACIFIC NORTHWEST SKI ASSOCIATION

Introduction

Ski competition in the Pacific Northwest, including Oregon, Washington, and Western Idaho is organized and conducted by the Pacific Northwest Ski Association (PNSA). PNSA and its' competitions are organized under the guidelines of the International Ski Federation (FIS) and US Ski and Snowboard.

The Pacific Northwest Ski Association was originally developed out of the need for uniformity in all phases of ski competition. PNSA works with US Ski and Snowboard in establishing the eligibility and qualifications of competitors, setting standards and certifications for coaches and officials, and organizes clinics and training programs for all skiing and snowboard disciplines. As a division of US Ski and Snowboard and the Western Region, PNSA plays a key role in all U. S. ski and snowboarding competitions. PNSA's competition program is the first step for ski and snowboard competitors to national and international amateur sports competition. PNSA is a non-profit organization and operates for the benefit of all PNSA and US Ski and Snowboard members in the Pacific Northwest division.

PNSA Vision

- A leader in attracting, developing and retaining competitive snow sport enthusiasts in the United States.

PNSA Mission Statement

- PNSA brings together the Pacific Northwest community to govern, administer, support and grow competitive snow sports in a fun and learning environment.

PNSA Values

- Inclusive Everyone has the opportunity to participate.
- Integrity We strive to do the right thing every day, regardless of personal interests or outcomes.
- Collaborative Foster a culture of cooperation among our resorts, clubs, coaches, athletes and officials.
- Community Cultivate fellowship, unity and respect among the snow sports community.
- Accountable Committed to efficiency, effectiveness and transparency in all we do.

Administration

The administration of Alpine, Nordic, Freestyle Skiing and Snowboarding competition in PNSA is the responsibility of the Director's of the competition committees that represent the interests of each athletic discipline. These Directors, in turn, are responsible to the PNSA Board of Directors. Each Director of the various skiing and snowboarding disciplines appoints a chairman of the competition committee who appoints various subcommittees to implement policy in their technical areas.

PNSA's athletic programs are designed and implemented by professional coaches and administrators as well as an active group of dedicated and knowledgeable volunteers. In addition, PNSA has direct input to the policies, procedures, and guidelines of US Ski and Snowboard through PNSA'S representation on various national-level committees and subcommittees.

PNSA maintains a year-round office to support the needs of PNSA competitors, coaches, officials, volunteers, and clubs. The office disseminates important information regarding race schedules, racer qualification and selection to traveling teams, coaches and officials clinics, etc. The office is available to help all PNSA clubs and individuals.
